

Glass know-how going global

Messe Düsseldorf launching new glass fair on the Indian market

glasstec is the leading fair for the international glass sector and is held every two years in Düsseldorf. In key international markets such as for example China or India, Messe Düsseldorf is offering the glass sector additional presentation platforms. As of next year there will be a change in activities in India: Messe Düsseldorf and its subsidiary, Messe Düsseldorf India, will jointly be staging the new fair GLASSPEX India. The fair is being supported by the Indian glass industry association, All India Glass Manufacturers' Federation (AIGMF) and the VDMA (German Engineering Federation), a glasstec-supporting association.

GLASSPEX India will be held for the first time from 2 to 4 December 2009 in New Delhi offering the Indian glass market a comprehensive overview of the latest glass products, developments and trends in the areas of glass manufacture, finishing and applications. India is one of the world's fastest growing economies. The growth in its population and higher standard of living are driving forward in particular the subcontinent's construction and automobile sector, while the demand for consumer goods is also rising. In all these areas the material glass plays a superior role, for example as a modern construction material in architecture, as packaging material for foodstuffs and pharmaceutical products, as vehicle glass or the basis for displays and communication cables in the electronics industry.

Every two years GLASSPEX India offers international companies – each time in alternation with glasstec in Düsseldorf – the ideal framework for a very specific presentation to the Indian glass market, meeting new business partners and establishing contact networks. In this connection the Indian glass industry is benefiting from the expertise, competence and experience, which Messe Düsseldorf has built up over the decades in staging glasstec as a leading worldwide trade fair. International commitment in all things glass

In addition to the location India, Messe Düsseldorf is active at other locations outside Germany: All in Glass is being organized by Messe Düsseldorf China in Guangzhou, the growth region in Southern China. In addition, in the years between glasstec, Messe Düsseldorf North America is also cooperating with GlassBuild America. With the organization of the "Glass Technology Pavilion", it offers the glasstec exhibitors Messe Düsseldorf's usual, tried-and-tested service. As a result, the Messe Düsseldorf Group provides its customers with optimum presentation opportunities in other international markets.
